DAY 1: WEDNESDAY, 19 JUNE

11:00 – 12:30

PARALLEL SESSIONS

A: AI: an opportunity or a challenge for cosmetics communication?

- Dr. Ana Adi, Vice President and Professor of Public Relations and Corporate Communications, Quadriga University of Applied Sciences, Berlin
- Philippe Borremans, Crisis & Emergency Risk Communication Consultant. Vice President, International Association of Risk & Crisis Communication, IARCC

Moderated by Małgorzata Miazek, Senior Communications Manager, Cosmetics Europe

In this session, speakers will delve into the very hot topic of Artificial Intelligence (AI) and its impact on the professional field of communication. The session will explore how AI has been changing the public relations profession and what is necessary to leverage AI successfully. The question of how AI can be used to enhance communication strategies of cosmetic brands will also be addressed as well as the practicalities of harnessing AI in crisis communication.

B: Weaponising hazard – regulating ingredients outside of the Cosmetic Products Regulation (CPR)

- Pavlna Chopova-Leprêtre, Partner, Mayer Brown
- Meglana Mihova, Managing partner, EPPA
- Cristina Arregui García, Director, Global Regulatory Affairs, IFRA
- Jan Ahlskog, Secretary General, European Regulation and Innovation Forum, ERIF

Moderated by John Chave, Director-General, Cosmetics Europe

The European Commission is committed to achieve a ‘toxic free environment’ as part of its Chemicals Strategy for Sustainability which is an important part of its EU’s Zero Pollution ambition, a key commitment of the European Green Deal (EGD). Within the frame of the EGD many regulations are being revised with this goal in mind. In this session, panellists will review the many regulations, beyond the Cosmetics Product Regulation (CPR), where the classification and labelling of chemicals will have an – sometimes unexpected – impact on the cosmetics industry’s ability to formulate cosmetic products.

DAY 1: WEDNESDAY, 19 JUNE

11:00 – 12:30

PARALLEL SESSIONS

C: How to best approach advocacy strategies in light of the new EU institutional environment?

- Shona Murray, Broadcast Journalist, Euronews
- Dr. Christos Vasilakos, Policy Advisor, European Parliament
- Stéphanie Brochard, European External Affairs, Senior Manager, Unilever
- Luca Nava, Director-General, Cosmetics Italia

Moderated by Solène Flahault, Director, Public Affairs, Cosmetics Europe

This session explores how the EU institutions are changing the way they work, especially with new transparency rules introduced after the Qatargate scandal. Speakers will also discuss what might change politically after the 2024 EU elections and how global trends, like those connected to the Green Deal, affect the EU's overall policies. Additionally, speakers will share advice on what strategies work well and what to avoid when advocating for an industry's interests in this new phase of EU governance.

D: Regulatory and trade opportunities in Sub-Saharan Africa

- Urszula Maria Stepkowska, Deputy Head of Unit, TRADE Unit C1, African, Caribbean and Pacific, Overseas Countries and Territories, European Commission
- Charles Azuka, Consultant in Toxicology and Regulatory Affairs for cosmetic and personal care products, expert in Sub-Sahara African Region, Selazona Consultancy LLC

Moderated by Maxime Jacques, International Relations Manager, Cosmetics Europe

The Sub-Saharan Africa region is a growing market that has recently become a focal point of interest for businesses around the world. However, trading activities with this region can be challenging for the cosmetics industry due to the currently evolving local regulatory frameworks. This session will explore the potential for the region to continue to grow a prospering cosmetic industry and discuss how to foster a regulatory environment that is compatible with global trade.
